English Teacher

Personal Statement

I believe that all students are unique and have something special that they can bring to their own education. I try my best that all my students express and accept themselves for who they are, and embrace the differences of others.

My aim is to bring an open mind, a positive attitude, and high expectations to the classroom each day. I believe that I owe it to my students, as well as the community. I make sure to bring consistency, diligence, and warmth to my job in the hope that I can ultimately inspire and encourage such qualities in students as well.

Teaching Philosophy

In my view, the English Language is a fundamental tool to help students develop the fundamental skills (Reading, Writing, and Listening) they need to study different subjects and communicate with others in real life scenarios. I decided to become a teacher to make a positive impact on the lives of students and to engage them in meaningful learning. I believe that all students are unique and have something special that they can bring to their own education. I try my best that all my students express and accept themselves for who they are, and embrace the differences of others.

My aim is to bring an open mind, a positive attitude, and high expectations to the classroom each day. I believe that I owe it to my students, as well as the community. I make sure to bring consistency, diligence, and warmth to my job in the hope that I can ultimately inspire and encourage such qualities in students as well.

Throughout my career in education, I have strived to maintain strong connections with my students. I believe the perfect relationship between student and teacher is one built on open, honest communication, and mutual respect. Students at the beginner level need a friendly, interactive learning environment that encourages their participation. My strength lies in my ability to cultivate a good relationship with the learners under my care. I strive to perform all my duties with passion and precision. In addition to motivational talks, I also make sure to include high-level sessions that bring about positive changes in students' attitudes and their approach to learning.
