MY PROFILE

Teaching Philosophy

- Self-motivated, committed to success, and achieving the highest standards of efficiency.
- Ability to organize and supervise work and team spirit amongst students.

Teaching Goals

- Dedicated to bringing out the hidden potential of students in the form of competence and integrity.
- To inculcate in students strong management and leadership skills with experience at handling tasks.
- To enlighten the students with new inspirational knowledge using latest technology to help upgrade their skills

PERSONAL STATEMENT

I have completed the Cambridge CELTA Certificate which was an intense course on English language teaching to speakers of other languages. I have also received some hands-on training from the British Council of Jeddah KSA as part of our teaching practice. I have also conducted some ELT workshops for ELI faculty based on my previous experience as a lecturer and researcher at NUML University Pakistan where I worked on language development on the basis of the Sapir Whorf hypothesis. During my Master's study, my dissertation was based on Carl Jung's Psycholinguistic approach toward an individual. I have taught Royal Saudi Cadets and cadets from the Peoples Republic Army China at NUML University Islamabad Pakistan. I have taught TOEFL iBT, IELTS, and Action research. History of English Literature, GSS (Grammar Syntax and structure) Also at JU I have been teaching ESP, ESL, and the four skills.

Training

During my career, I underwent numerous training sessions workshops, and seminars held by international speakers. My first research paper was on learners' autonomy and ELT teaching in KSA. My research achievements include the best paper presentation for my work by Ontario college 2016 for teaching English vocabulary through the Fishbone graphic organizer. Also, in my last research conference 2018 a joint US/Canadian conference I Presented my work comparing the impact of social media on new word entries in the Oxford English dictionary and its implications on ELT teaching. I have also worked on Magic Realism in Alchemist Paul Coelho in Italy I learned about the conceptual and theoretical framework of research. Currently, I'm working on the psychological impact of e-learning on female students and faculty at Jizan University during the Covid response

Future Prospects

I wish to provide research supervision to ESL students. Also, I want to establish a virtual book club and virtual extempore speech competition for the benefit of ESL students. Also, I am interested in organizing workshops too. facilitate underprivileged students who are looking for genuine guidance. I wish to serve as a beacon of hope and knowledge for people and the community in the future.
