Research

I am a Q2 & Q3 researcher and familiar with various schools of citation such as Chicago, APA, MLA, Harvard, and IEEE. I am good at thematic analysis, phenomenology, and discourse analysis, and familiar with MAXQDA, and NVivo. Guiding students to promote research is part and parcel of my job. I actively engage in research in general and edit and proofread graduate and postgraduate theses in particular to enhance clarity and coherence. I provide help in finding resources for students according to the areas of their research and verify checklists submitted by them before presentations. I had experience using SafeAssign to check similarity percentages in students' academic papers and follow them up with some guidelines relating to similarity reduction in their writings. Furthermore, I edit academic assignments of academic writing course papers for grammatical errors, punctuation, clarity, and coherence. I focus on each detail to deliver quality output to ensure it is plagiarism-free and possesses constructive writing.
